Crete is the largest island in the Greek Islands. It is filled with white bays, olive groves, vast vineyards and rich vegetation. The greatness of the island is in the wonderful combination it offers to visitors: archeological sites, along with bustling nightlife, bustling and romantic cities, and unique and impressive natural phenomena. Crete Island is divided into four regions: Heraklion, Rethymno, Chania and Lasithi.

More than 2.5 million tourists visit Crete each year, which is almost 5 times its population of about 650,000, most of whom live in the five major cities of Crete: Heraklion, Chania, Rethymno, Irpatra and Sitia. Most tourists arriving in Crete land at Heraklion International Airport, which is the second airport in Greece's tourist rush after Athens. Some of the tourists land in the city of Chania, also an international airport, and some arrive on cruises.

Crete has countless beaches to choose from, but there are three magical beaches hidden in the island, which are rated as part of the most beautiful beaches in the world: The blue lagoons of Balos Beach, Elafonisi Beach and Seitan Limania Beach - a tiny mid-bay beach that creates spectacular views.

PLACES OF INTEREST

Chania (10 km from the property)

The city of Chania is the second largest city in Crete. It is considered the most beautiful city on the island of Crete and as a major departure point for excursions.

The most popular and charming area in the city is the old port. The port was established during the Venetian rule in Chania, hence its name - "the old Venetian port". At the entrance to the port there is a picturesque and beautiful lighthouse that shines in the evening, and along its length are scattered many entertainment sites, local taverns and also souvenir shops for tourists.

Another must-see destination is Chania's local market, which is considered one of the most beautiful markets in Europe. This is an indoor market called 'Agora'. The market was established in the early 20th century as part of the celebrations for the unification of Crete and Greece, and was designed according to the market structure in Marseille, France, in the shape of a cross, and includes about 76 shops and cafes. Most of the products sold in the market are local products from the island of Crete.

The city has two prominent museums: the Museum of Archeology housed inside a 16th-century Franciscan church, and the Maritime Museum.

The best organized beaches in the city are: Agii Apostoli, Agios Onoufrios, Stalos and Kalathas.
